10 Things to Love About Bradford

The Brontës

Perhaps the most famous literary family the country has produced, the Brontës were born in Thornton and spent most of their lives in Haworth.

Their life and work are celebrated in Haworth's Brontë Parsonage Museum, which is a short walk away from the unspoiled area of south Pennine hills that inspired works including Wuthering Heights.

The Alhambra

Opened in 1914, Bradford's 1400 capacity Alhambra Theatre is regarded as a 'jewel in the crown' of northern theatre.

The venue hosts a range of major touring companies including Northern Ballet and the National Theatre and has staged major West End shows including The Lion King, War Horse and Mary Poppins. It's also home to one of the most popular pantomimes in the UK.

UNESCO City of Film

Bradford is the world's first UNESCO City of Film.

This title bestows international recognition on Bradford as a world centre for film because of the city's rich film heritage, its inspirational movie locations, its many celebrations of the moving image through film related events and its unique approach to learning about film and learning with film.

Incredible Scenery

Perhaps the best thing of all about Bradford is its stunning natural beauty. With a fine mixture of deep valleys, rolling hills and rugged moorland, it is full of character and places to explore. Special mentions go to Ilkley Moor and Brontë Country, but you're never too far from beauty in Bradford.

Amazing Architecture

Bradford is home to one of the finest collections of Victorian buildings in the UK.

City Hall and the Wool Exchange are superb examples of Gothic exuberance, while the commercial district of Little Germany contains no less than 55 listed buildings. Elsewhere Cartwright Hall, St George's Hall and the Alhambra are all wonderfully unique.

David Hockney

David Hockney was born on July 9th, 1937, in Bradford and studied at Bradford School of Art in the 1950s before going on to become one of the most influential and best-loved artists of the 20th century.

His ties to Bradford are still strong with large collections of his work on display at Salts Mill 1853 Gallery and The David Hockney Gallery at Cartwright Hall.

Literature Festivals

The Bradford Literature Festival began in 2014 and has quickly established itself as one of the most popular and diverse literature Festivals in the UK.

Ilkley's Literature Festival has now been bringing the biggest names in literature to the district for 50 years.

Britain's Curry Capital

Bradford remains the undisputed champion of curry having being crowned 'Curry Capital of Britain' six years in a row. With a vibrant community and a large number of historic and contemporary curry houses, it's no wonder foodies come from far and wide to experience an authentic Bradford curry.

Britain's Best Bookshop

Named by The Independent and The Guardian as one of Britain's best bookshops, the Bradford branch of Waterstones is rather special.

Based in the Lockwood and Mawson designed former Wool Exchange building, you can browse the latest crime thrillers or get a coffee in the vast Gothic-revivalist hall that was once the beating heart of Bradford's wool trade.

Saltaire, World Heritage Site

UNESCO World Heritage Site Saltaire is a unique Victorian 'model' industrial village, established in the 1850s by wool baron Sir Titus Salt.

Surrounded by hills, spectacular bluebell woods and moorland, it is built from honey-coloured stone in neo-Italianate style. Stay in the village and enjoy local shops, restaurants, countryside and nearby attractions.

Things to Do

Ilkley Moor and Cow and Calf Rocks

On Ilkley Moor there are carvings thought to date from the early Bronze Age, around 1800 BC. There are 400 known 'cup and ring' carved stones across the moors, and their purpose remains a mystery to this day. Features like this make the moor a fascinating place, and a wonderful walk at all times of the year. From White Wells to the Cow and Calf, there's plenty to see – particularly in late July when the heathers bloom. High on Ilkley Moor, the Cow and Calf Rocks are a large rock formation consisting of an outcrop and boulder, also known as Hangingstone Rocks. According to local legend, the Calf was split from the Cow when the giant Rombald was fleeing an enemy, and stamped on the rock as he leapt across the valley.

The enemy, it is rumoured, was his angry wife. She dropped the stones held in her skirt to form the local rock formation, The Skirtful of Stones. The rocks are a great place to climb and the moor offers spectacular views of Ilkley and beyond.

History

Sir Titus Salt rose from modest beginnings to become one of the country's most successful industrialists, leaving this fine village as his legacy. Salt made his fortune in the Bradford textile industry, manufacturing fine woollen fabrics. Determined to escape the polluted and overcrowded town centre, he made a bold decision to relocate his business and employees.

Architects Lockwood and Mawson designed the entire village in a classical Renaissance style. Work began in 1851, Salts Mill was the first building to be completed in 1853.

Things to Do

Salts Mill

The Grade II Listed historic mill building was built in 1853 by Sir Titus Salt along with the village to house his workers. The Mill is now a place for art, shopping and dining, with free entry and parking.

Salts Mill is home to the 1853 Gallery, one of the largest collections of David Hockney's art, with a permanent exhibition of over 300 works by Hockney, demonstrating the large range of styles and techniques used by the Bradford-born artist.

Continue through the mill onto the second and third floors where you will find 'The Arrival of Spring' by David Hockney and People & Process where objects and images take visitors through the history of this iconic mill.
